La bibliothèque de travail léguée en 1936 à l'Université de Poitiers par Auguste Dubois comprend plus de huit cents ouvrages de langue ou d'origine britannique ou irlandaise.

La majeure partie de cet ensemble provient des fonds des libraires et collectionneurs londoniens, les frères Kashnor, spécialistes en ouvrages de politique et d'économie des Îles britanniques, exerçant à Londres dans la première moitié du 20e siècle, à l'enseigne du Museum Book Store.

Ce fonds anglais est très majoritairement économique, ou économico-politique (questions d'Écosse et d'Irlande, South-Sea Company), constitué principalement de pamphlets, certains fort rares, publiés au cours de la seconde moitié du 17e s. et jusqu'aux premières années du 19e.

Le répertoire de ces livres proposé ici donne les descriptifs de notre catalogue informatisé tel que nous en disposons aujourd'hui. La plupart des notices proviennent d'une copie des fiches manuscrites, soignées, mais sommaires, établies dans les années 1930, époque où beaucoup de données devenues disponibles par les sources COPAC et ESTC n'existaient pas. La rétroconversion sur la base de descriptifs manuscrits a entraîné aussi un certain nombre de lapsus inévitables.

On s'est efforcé de rétablir à partir de COPAC les références d'auteurs certains ou hypothétiques, faisant le choix de conserver ces mentions lors même qu'elles sont douteuses (cf. pour Daniel Defoe).

Il s'agit donc ici d'un simple outil de repérage, et nom d'un répertoire scientifique.
